

Loyola Men In Armed Services Now Number 975

John L. Robinson, Edward Jendrek Die In Service

Two more former Loyola students have been recently reported killed in action.

Lieutenant (s. g.) John L. Robinson, U. S. N. R., was killed in action in the Pacific theatre of war on August 2. Lt. Robinson met his death when his plane crashed into the sea.

Private First Class Edward G. Jendrek, '40, was killed in action in France on September 21. At the time, Pvt. Jendrek was serving with the infantry following the invasion of Europe.

Enlisted In Navy Air Force

Lt. Robinson enlisted in the Navy in 1941, and received his wings at Pensacola, Florida. He was stationed at Washington for a time, but was later transferred to Anacostia.

Lt. Robinson graduated from Loyola in 1941, receiving an A. B. degree. While attending Loyola, he displayed a wide interest in the extra-curricular activities of the College. He was an active member of the Blessed Virgin Sodality, the Sanctuary Society, and the Social Science Club.

In Heavy Fighting

Pvt. Jendrek enlisted in the infantry in February, 1942. He was sent to England last summer and, two weeks after his arrival, landed in France. In his letters to his home, he told of heavy fighting in which he participated.

During his four years at Loyola, Pvt. Jendrek was a member of the Blessed Virgin Sodality, the St. Vincent de Paul Society, and the Social Science Club. He took an active part in sports, particularly tennis and handball.

Adult School Begins Term

"Registration for the Adult Education courses has been very satisfactory," said the Rev. Joseph K. Drane, S. J., Dean of the School of Adult Education, when questioned about the prospects for the present semester.

In the past semester the courses, opened to students who desired accredited studies and to adults interested in cultural or business advancement, were met with gratifying response by one hundred and fifty adult students.

Classes Held One Night Weekly

Classes in the various subjects are held one night a week for two fifty minute periods.

The schedule for the classes is as follows: Monday—Public Speaking and Oral English. Tuesday—Ethics. Wednesday—Adolescent Psychology, Logic, and Current Social Problems. Thursday—Psychology and Medieval History. Friday—Elementary Spanish.

Professors Listed

The professors for the various studies are: the Rev. Thomas J. Higgins, S. J., and the Rev. Joseph A. d'Inwilliers, S. J., Philosophy; the Rev. Joseph J. Ayd, S. J., and Dr. Edward A. Doehler, Social Science and History; the Very Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S. J., and the Rev. Matthew G. Sullivan, S. J., Psychology; the Rev. Joseph K. Drane, S. J., and Mr. William J. Costello, Oral English and Public Speaking; and the Rev. James Cawley, S. J., Spanish.

The present semester began on October 23 and will end on February 16, 1945. The classes are conducted in the Library Building from 8 p. m. to 10 p. m. with a ten minute recess at 9 p. m. Mr. E. Paul Betowski, S. J., is the registrar.

Service Vigil Lamp

Ship's Lamp Vigil Light burns continuously on the campus for Loyola's sons in service.

IRC Convenes At Marywood

The International Relations Club of Loyola College is participating in the convention of the Middle Atlantic International Relations Conference which began at Marywood College, Pa., yesterday, and continues through Saturday.

The treatment of the defeated enemy nations; the treatment of the enemy satellite countries; the United Nations during the war and after the peace has been signed; and the type of world order that should be established after the war, are the topics which are being discussed at this convention.

Thirty Colleges Represented

Approximately thirty colleges from the Middle Atlantic States are participating in the convention. The Loyola Club has been attending these conventions since 1938.

Howard Strott, secretary of the Club, will act as secretary of one of the discussions. The recent dismissal of Gen. Stillwell in the China area, Britain's India problem, and the return of Italy's colonies, are points of special interest which will be covered in the discussions.

Club Is Well Prepared

The IRC has been discussing these points in the meetings of the past semester. Under the leadership of Dr. Edward A. Doehler, moderator of the Club, and Chairman Joseph Gessler, the Club has held model discussions of the main problems of the convention in its weekly meetings.

In addition to Dr. Doehler, ten members of the society are attending the conference at Marywood College.

Representatives Named

Those attending the convention from Loyola College are: Joseph Gessler, Howard Strott, Gerard Connolly, Henry Eckhardt, William Ehorst, Paul Hilmer, Joseph Heinekamp, Mannes Greenberg, Charles Meagher, and William Rogers.

The convention began yesterday with registration at Marywood College. It will continue today and tomorrow with meetings of the four panels, and close on Saturday afternoon with a general meeting.

Seventeen Give Lives; Four Prisoners Of War

The names of 975 former Loyola students appear on the revised service honor roll in this issue. This represents an increase of over 150 during the past seven months.

Seventeen alumni of Loyola College have been reported killed in the service of their country since the beginning of the war. The photographs of those who have died in service appear on page three of this issue.

List Approaches A Thousand

If the present rate continues, the list will contain a thousand names by the end of the year. Most of the new additions to the honor roll resulted from the removal of all college students from the 2-A classification. This order became effective last Spring.

Freshman Group Starts Classes

A new Freshman group began classes at Evergreen last month. The group is taking a special course concentrating on non-science courses in the first semester, and on science courses during the second semester of their first year.

The program will enable the group to take certain subjects with the regular Freshman Class, which entered in July, and other courses with the upperclass elective groups.

Class Takes One Night Course

The class takes two English subjects, a course in Public Speaking, a mathematics course, training in Theology for Catholic students, a study of Constitutional History and an evening course in Medieval History, which is taken one night weekly in the School of Adult Education.

In addition to this, the group also takes exercises in Physical Training. By January 26, 1945, students will have earned 13 credits toward any degree given at Loyola College—that is approximately one semester's work. Eight semesters work is required for a degree.

Less Acceleration

The College does not promise that the Two Year program will be continued after September, 1945. Students beginning this course will probably finish by June 1947.

There are now twelve students in this Freshman group representing six different preparatory schools.

Sodality Union Presents Dance

The Sodality Union of Baltimore presented a Halloween dance in the Evergreen Gym on October 31. Rudy Killian's Orchestra provided the music.

With the purpose in mind of helping the missions, the mission committees of the various Sodalities combined their ideas and efforts to make this dance a huge success.

Students of the College of Notre Dame of Maryland, Mount Saint Agnes Junior College, and Loyola College, who are enrolled in their college Sodality organizations, combine to form the Sodality Union of Baltimore.

Over sixty-five students from all classes were inducted into the armed forces between June 1 and August 1. Most of these entered the Army and some will complete basic Army training this month.

One-Third Officers

The ratio of officers to men among the armed forces of the United States is 1 to 18. However, among Loyola alumni, the ratio is 1 to 3. Within the past three weeks, three more former Loyola students were commissioned Ensigns in the Naval Reserve.

In addition to this, many Loyola students are now attending Army and Navy colleges and most of these expect to be commissioned in the near future.

Fighting Loyola men have distinguished themselves on all of the battlefields of this global war. One was on Bataan in 1942, another was at Pearl Harbor on December 7 and still another was aboard the aircraft carrier Lexington when she was sunk in the Pacific.

Other former Loyola students have received decorations for the parts which they played in the war.

Colonel Codd Receives Citation

Colonel Leo A. Codd, '16, one of the highest ranking Loyola alumni in the armed forces, recently was awarded the Medal of the Legion of Merit. The medal was presented by Major General L. H. Campbell, Jr., Chief of Ordnance of the United States Army, before a gathering of distinguished Ordnance officers and civilian personnel in the office of the Chief of Ordnance in the Pentagon Building, Washington.

The Citation read as follows:

"For exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in connection with Public Relations and Historical Activities of the Ordnance Department from 15 June 1942 to 8 September 1944. As Executive Assistant to the Chief of Ordnance, he distinguished himself by the outstanding manner in which he planned and executed several important innovations in the press, radio and visual education fields which resulted in better preventative maintenance of Ordnance equipment, increased production and a better understanding of the Army Service contribution to the war effort by the American people. As Historical Officer of the Ordnance Department, his contribution to future National Preparedness was particularly noteworthy."

Work On Upperclass Annuals Progresses

Despite the heavy demands that the present wartime situation has placed upon the Seniors of Loyola College, the plans for the annual Evergreen are now being fulfilled. The present Junior Class, the class of July '45, is already making plans for its class book which will be published just five months after the one being put out by the Seniors.

John Kernan heads the staff for the Senior book, while George Edwards and Bill Meyer will combine their talents for the Juniors. Kernan will be assisted by Henry Eckhardt, as Associate Editor, Walter Norris, Joseph Gessler and Dodd Carr.

Editorial Work Started

Eckhardt is in charge of the sections of the book covering the graduates and the activities of the student body. Norris will take care of photography for the book, and Gessler will act as business manager. Dodd Carr is responsible for the success of the advertising and patron campaign.

Although the book has been greatly curtailed in size, the spirit of the undertaking remains the same. The dedication of the book has been voted to the Rev. Joseph J. Ayd, S. J. The vote of the Senior Class, to dedicate the permanent record of its class activities while at Loyola College to Father Ayd, has brought forth a definite analogy. This analogy is, "that the book, just like Father Ayd will be small in size but almost boundless in spirit." And to this end the seniors are now working.

Half Of Work Completed

The theme is still in the blueprint stage. However, almost half of the actual work on the book has been accomplished.

The innovation begun last year, of having a list of former students of the class now in the country's service featured in the book, will be continued again this year.

Summary

It is morally certain, as we say in Philosophy, that by the time this issue of THE GREYHOUND is delivered to our subscribers, the present editor-in-chief will be the former editor-in-chief and will at that time be beginning his military career. The new editor of THE GREYHOUND and his staff will be officially announced in the next issue of this paper.

With these thoughts in mind, we think it appropriate at this time to give a brief summary of two of the major trends which we have seen continued during our very short term of office.

The first of these is the trend toward conservatism in the page lay-out and writing of THE GREYHOUND. In particular terms this is exemplified in the less frequent use of large and streamer type headlines, the reduction of the amount of photographs on a page and in an issue, and the use of such devices as the quarter and half box over small headlines.

In this way, we have been able to get more news into our standard eight page set-up. These news stories, for their part, have followed as closely as possible the accepted rules of news, feature, and sports articles.

The other trend which we wish to note is the publishing of many articles dealing with plans for the Post-War period. For an example of this type of article we need only to turn to page eight of this issue. The article on that page is the second in a series of reports issued by the Universities Committee Group of Loyola College.

We believe that both these trends help to make this paper more attractive and interesting for the alumni of Loyola College who comprise the largest percentage of our readers. We believe that these and other trends apparent within the past year have helped THE GREYHOUND live up to its All-American reputation.

It has not been an easy job to keep up the standards of THE GREYHOUND during these past twelve months. It has taken real hard work, but we are sure that it has been worth it, and it makes us more certain every time we receive a letter from a former student in the armed forces, telling us how much he enjoys reading THE GREYHOUND. One of the main purposes of this publication is to keep the alumni of Loyola College informed of the affairs of their alma mater, and we believe we have succeeded in this.

In conclusion we would like to take this opportunity to wish the very best of luck to the new editor and staff. We'll be anxiously awaiting every issue of our favorite newspaper.

Condolences

On behalf of the Faculty and Student Body, THE GREYHOUND extends heartfelt condolences to the Rev. Joseph A. d'Invernizzi, S. J., Dean of Loyola College, on the death of his mother.

Service Issue

As the third year of America's participation in the war draws to a close, the number of former Loyola students now in service approaches the one thousand mark. Of this number, nearly a third are commissioned officers and a large percentage of them have distinguished themselves in battle by their heroism and sacrifice.

The record of our fighting alumni is one of which colleges many times the size of Loyola could well be proud. However, as great as this record is, it should not be surprising to anyone who is acquainted with Loyola's peacetime record and the story of her accomplishments during World War I, when over 250 Loyola men were in the armed forces.

These records are even more remarkable in view of the fact that Loyola has never sponsored an R. O. T. C. program of any kind, and due to the lack of housing facilities it was not possible to receive Army or Navy students at Evergreen.

The account is inspiring. Seventeen former Loyola students have given their lives for their country, others have been wounded, are missing in action or are prisoners of war. Many have received medals and citations for their heroism in battle.

For those who have made the supreme sacrifice, a Mass is offered weekly in the Students' Chapel and another Mass is offered weekly for the safe return of those in service. All are constantly remembered in the prayers of the Faculty and the Student Body.

GREYHOUND Scholarship Fund
Loyola College
Baltimore, Maryland
Dear Sirs,

Please accept the enclosed money order as my contribution to your splendid effort to build up a Scholarship Fund. You have all my hopes and wishes for a very successful project.

Thanks to an old classmate, Dan Bathon, I have been receiving copies of our GREYHOUND; it certainly takes me back to the good old days. However, it is not as lonely as you might expect out here for I have met several Loyola men. Seeing them has brought back many fond memories.

The best of luck to you, and I hope to see everyone at the college again very soon.

Editors of the GREYHOUND:
Dear Sirs,

A thoughtful brother alumnus, Robert Bachman, '42, forwarded your August 10 GREYHOUND to me.

It was a rare treat to visit the Evergreen campus again. Your coverage of Loyola men in the armed forces was, naturally, of particular interest to me. However, there was nothing that lacked intense interest.

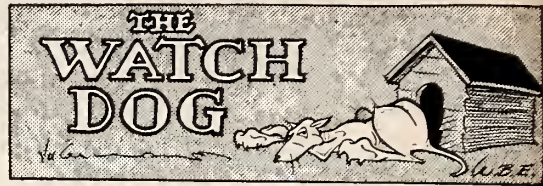

I am in Marine Base Defense Aviation. In the past year I have had the good fortune to meet three Loyola men: Lt. (j. g.) Harry Kosky of the Coast Guard; Lt. (j. g.) Walter Chimiak of the Navy, both of the class of '42; and William Shea, Lt. (s. g.) NAF, ex '43.

Your GREYHOUND Scholarship Fund is a great idea. As a fortunate holder of a Loyola scholarship, I know how much one means to a student. Enclosed is a money order to be applied to your Scholarship Fund.

It may interest you to know that my hobby since I have been overseas has been teaching. Wherever Uncle Sam sets me down, I set up school. At present I am teaching Trigonometry. In the past we have held classes in Physics and Electricity. Through the local Educational Officers we usually manage to get the formal credits from an accredited school for our students.

So long for now as I've a date with some "K" rations.

Until we all meet in the States,
God bless you, Loyola men!

MATRIMONIAL MURMURINGS — The Watchdog takes this opportunity to congratulate Bud Strott on his recent marriage to Miss Catherine ("Girlie") Buchness . . . Best of luck to you both . . . We would also like to say thanks . . . It's things like that reception that make a dog's life bearable . . .

It seems that Charlie (I'm Mayor of the Tenth Ward since Rouse left) Meagher and his sidekick Boots (We REAL Irishmen spell it with an 'o') Connolly were quite upset when they couldn't find Bill (Wandering Willie) Ehorst OR some shy and nameless maiden . . . Bill claims they saw a double feature together . . . Uh-huh!!! . . . Both movies at once?

John (Where's Preston?) Seifert reminded us of the 'dentist' Frannie Locke . . . Both seem interested in all kinds of molars and Mohlers . . .

NOW IT CAN BE TOLD—Homer (I don't really care—I'm leaving) Plunkett should be informed about a whole family of secret admirers who hail from down yonder on 33rd . . . the most ardent seems to answer to "Queenie" (It's English for Regina) . . . watch out for Bockstie, John . . . Ray (Bucky) Buchanan has relinquished the seat he had reserved on the Homewood bus . . . Claims he won't be using the bus much longer . . . That Fred (Clem) Hubbell tried to compete with the Waldorf by starting his own hotel in New York . . . He says that Bob (It was O. K.) Longley and Bill (Oh those Island babes!) Rogers both recommend it heartily . . . VERY quiet.

EXTRA-CURRICULAR WORK — Among our classical minded students we see that George Edwards is still a firm advocate of Romaine history while Stewart Koehler, as usual, prefers the study of Helen-ic beauty . . . Vince (Sure Geri's better) Bagli, however, still argues there's nothing like a little Chess-ic to relax the mind . . . Note to Geller: he uses different rules than you do.

CURIOSITIES: Jim MacDonald and Rita BOTH wearing L. H. S. class rings at a recent dance. Sort 'a puzzled James for the evening . . . Knobby (Look at the batting average) Harris and Doris claiming that the floor was too slippery . . . and neither one gave the other a chance to fall . . . ain't that nice? . . . Joe Gessler lighting up for a certain Catonsville Cutie . . . hums Mary to accompany the radiation, too . . .

ALUMNI DOINGS

By Edward A. Doehler, '30

Alumni Election Returns

The Annual Election meeting of October 25 was fairly well attended, and thoroughly enjoyed by those present. All that remains to be done is to report the results of the spirited balloting:

President Charles Conlon, '06
 First Vice-President Anselm Sodaro, '31
 Second Vice-President Jerome Egan, '32
 Directors for Three Year Term:
 J. Lacy Bradley, '21
 Lingard I. Whiteford, '27
 James Manley, '41
 Director for Two Year Term John W. Farrell, '17
 Director for One Year Term George M. Brady, '00

Alumni Retreat

Cards have been mailed to those who in the past have attended the Alumni Retreat at Manresa-on-Severn. This note will serve as a further reminder to them—and as a second Alumni Doing invitation to all members—to be with the Association at Manresa on December 1 to 3. The retreat captain, Thomas J. Grogan, '29, is working hard to make the retreat a success, with a record attendance. Don't let him down! Call up a classmate—and arrange to be at Manresa on the evening of December 1.

Alumni and the Junior Prom

In the past, the Alumni have been the chief sponsors and supporters of the college activity known as "Loyola Night", an evening of music, drama and dancing at the Alcazar. Father Rector has announced that "Loyola Night" will not be held this year—and has suggested that we give our wholehearted support and backing to the Junior Prom which this year will serve as both Prom and "Loyola Night". Here is a chance to enjoy yourself—and show your loyalty and cooperation at the same time. It has been a long time since your own Prom! Why not come out to Evergreen and see how they do it these days? If you cannot come—why not help the boys with a patron?

Alumni Letters

Francis X. Kearney, '43, wrote in recently from "somewhere in the Pacific". As with all of the boys, he values THE GREYHOUND most highly: "THE GREYHOUND is a link between us Loyola men". Frank is happy to recall his recent years at Loyola, and the present value of those associations to him: "You can't realize what a treat it is to sit down with THE GREYHOUND and begin to think back over the wonderful days at Loyola when one is so far from all those things and misses them so much. There is a Jesuit boy from Detroit University aboard, and we have a lot in common, even a superior attitude over the others because we are Jesuit students. Talking about our teachers and the good times and excellent training causes the long hours to slide past quickly". Frank has also been fortunate in meeting classmates in his travels. He mentions meetings with George Baker, Earl Schmitt, Jim Nouss, John Wiegard, Cory Walker, and Charles Hawkins.

Ensign Barkley Fritz, '43, also keeps up his contacts at Evergreen. Writing in from somewhere in that same Pacific from which most of our letters come, Barkley cannot realize that it was only seven weeks ago when he was "out Loyola way parading around in whites". He is now attached to a Naval Combat Demolition Team.

Annual Big Dance Features Carl Hamilton's Orchestra

By Frank Cashen

Loyola College's annual Junior Prom will be presented by the Junior Class on Saturday evening, December 9, in the College Gym. This is the second Junior Prom to be held under full war-time conditions.

Carl Hamilton and his band will furnish the music. The dance will be strictly formal. Since this is to be the sole formal function held at the College, it promises to be the biggest social event of the year. Tickets are priced at $3.85, and dancing will be from 9 to 1.

Band Is Local Favorite

Hamilton and his band have achieved quite a name for themselves in local social circles and his name is not new to dance-goers. He is noted for his danceable music, featuring sweet tunes with a new twist in arrangements. The band consists of ten pieces and boasts two vocalists.

Mike Molloy, Junior Class President, has announced that the Prom Queen will be Miss Florence Van Orman of Ithaca, New York. Miss Van Orman, a student nurse in training at Mt. St. Agnes Hospital, will receive the coveted bouquet from Donald Giblin, president of last year's Junior Class.

Promenade At Midnight

Mr. Molloy and Miss Van Orman will lead the class in the usual Class Promenade which takes place at 12 o'clock. Following the Promenade the Loyola Alma Mater will be sung by the assembled Juniors.

Due to the war, the custom of having an annual Loyola Night for the Alumni has been dispensed with. Instead, Alumni Night will be combined with the Junior Prom and all alumni are urged to attend.

Gym Floor Remodeled

Mr. Molloy, who is acting as chairman of the dance, maintains, "this dance should be the best function of the year and one that Juniors will long remember. The gym, the floor of which has recently been remodeled, will be lavishly decorated. The dance will be cabaret style, and refreshments will be served. It will be a program dance and I think the program is one of the finest I have ever seen."

For weeks the program committee, under the leadership of Bud Strott, has been assembling patrons for the dance. Student patrons contributed fifty cents while outsiders furnished a dollar. The program itself, one of the highlights of the prom, was laid out by Mr. Strott assisted by Bill Meyer.

Favors To Be Secret

The traditional keepsakes of the prom, the favors, will be distributed as usual. The nature of the favors will not be revealed until the night of the prom. Charles Meagher and Bob Longley head the favor committee.

Mr. Molloy announced the chaperones of the dance as: Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Doehler; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. May; Dr. Edward Doehler; Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Molloy; Mr. and Mrs. Patrick H. Buvens, and Mr. and Mrs. R. Howard Strott.

Workmen Resurface
Basketball Court

Indoor basketball practice was renewed early this month after the work of reconditioning the gymnasium floor had been completed. The task of renovating the playing floor for the coming season was started in mid-October with the sanding.

The workmen, under the direction of the Rev. William V. Herlihy, S. J., scrubbed, waxed and varnished the floor. They then painted on the lines marking off the basketball court.

The floor will be lighter in color, and is covered with a new material made of bakelite. Fr. Herlihy is confident that the present improvement will boost the calibre of the games.

Loyola Quintet
Preps For Busy
M-D Schedule

With little experienced material available, the basketball team began serious practice early this month in preparation for a relatively tough schedule which has been carded by Coach Warner.

This season will probably reveal a good calibre of ball being played despite the fact that Catholic University has been forced to drop the cage game. Again Mt. St. Mary's will probably produce a snappy squad of naval trainees. After a year's absence, Randolph Macon will again enter league competition.

Two Holdovers

Sal Cammarata and Jerry Cohen, two lettermen from last year, are the only holdovers and will form the nucleus of the present varsity. Up from last year's B squad are Don Giblin, Frank Cashen, Tim Parr, and Ed Fleishman, who are fighting for the remaining starting berths on the varsity quint.

Among the other outstanding prospects are Sid Roche, Bill Cahill, John Mudd, Charles Funk, Paul Harris, Ralph Sybert, Bill Roberts, George Lochner, Lou Franz, Bob Longley, Bill Seldon, and Paul Muth. None have had any collegiate competition except Roche who played some basketball for Temple University last year. Hard workouts began as soon as the gymnasium floor was refinished, and the team is slowly rounding into shape.

Opener On Dec. 6

The Hounds will meet Gallaudet on December 6 here, for its opening league contest. The usual conference games are scheduled and several service teams may be met. There is also a possibility of a game against Marshall College of West Virginia which displayed a speedy pace in conquering the Greyhounds last year.

Reitz Praises
A. A. Mentor

Second Class Petty Officer Emil G. Reitz, USNR, former Athletic Director of Loyola College, frequently visited Evergreen during the last week of October. He was enjoying a well-earned leave, which had been granted to the Navy trainees at Penn State College who had successfully completed their semester examinations.

During his short visit, Lefty had hopes of putting the rather inexperienced collegiate quint this year through the elementary stages of training. However, these hopes were shattered since the playing floor of the gymnasium had just been reconditioned, and practice had been discontinued for the week.

Meanwhile Lefty entered a few thrilling touch football contests, besides aiding Mr. Warner in filling out the present basketball schedule. Before returning to Penn State at the end of his leave, Lefty wished the varsity quint the best of luck in the coming season, which starts early in December, and he lauded the choice of Warner as A. A. Director.

Rector Names Warner
New Athletic Director

By Tom Gorman

Albert F. Warner, recently appointed Athletic Director at Loyola College by the Very Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S. J., is already engaged in carrying out a well-rounded program for the college.

Mr. Warner plans to give the students here the best possible physical training under the present limited war time conditions. Intramural athletics, as well as outside competition in basketball and possibly swimming, will play a major role in the college's activities this coming winter.

Mr. Warner had hoped to have a soccer team this year, for he felt there were enough students on the campus with experience who were interested, but, due to his late entry, he was not able to organize one. However, basketball, long the major sport at Loyola, is in full swing and Mr. Warner has quite a number of candidates seeking berths on the quint in after-school practices. The Greyhounds will play approximately twenty-five games this season, with the opener on December 4 against Villanova. An intramural basketball tournament will also be staged.

Swimming To Be Conducted

Swimming, one of Mr. Warner's favorite sports, will be carried on, but it is doubtful whether or not he can post an intercollegiate aquatic squad. Meanwhile, every student will be urged to swim this season, for there will be both a beginners and an advanced swimming class. Life-saving will also be taught.

In addition to the intramural wrestling tournament that is to be held during the winter, there is a possibility that Judo will be taught in conjunction with wrestling, if enough students show interest. Also on the card when the weather confines the activities to the indoors, will be tumbling, hand balancing, and pyramid building in the elementary stages.

Obstacle Course Included

Instruction in the physical training classes will consist of calisthenics, grass drill, shadow boxing, hill climbing, tug-of-war, running and walking. Parallel and high bar work will also be included along with self-testing activities and hygienic teaching. Meanwhile the lads will have a thorough workout over the obstacle course, serving warning of things to come for those who are about to enter the armed forces.

Mr. Warner, whose background fits him for his undertaking, believes in teaching the fundamentals of physical training and not coaching teams. For more than ten years he was director of athletics and instructor of P. T. at the Central Young Men's Christian Association in Baltimore. In 1940 he became swimming coach and physical instructor at the University of Maryland, where he also directed intramural activities.

Studied At Springfield

In 1943 he went to Johns Hopkins University to serve as P. T. Instructor for civilian students and the Army Specialized Training Program. A graduate of Springfield College, one of the country's foremost physical training centers, Mr. Warner also furthered his studies at the University of Maryland. At the present time he is attending the college for teachers at Hopkins.

Mr. Warner expressed a desire that he would like to see the return of lacrosse and other sports that Loyola has been forced to curtail as a result of the decrease in the student body due to the war, but he did not think it was possible until the school returns to its peacetime standards.

Sybert Paces
Mural Totals

With the intramural football league play half completed, the Mad Scientists are leading the flock with three victories. Ralph Sybert of this sextet is on top of the scoring race, having tallied three touchdowns and one conversion. Sid Roche, of Ayd's Aggies, is closely trailing the leader with three touchdowns.

The Senior All-Stars, Fighting Foreigners, Gophers, and Ayd's Aggies, are now tied up fighting for second place with two victories each. Following these strong contenders are the Deadbeats, Isrealites, and the Cellar Rats.

The teams are organized into only one league, and the four top squads will enter the play-offs at the end of the league games to determine the champion. Each member of the championship squad will receive medals.

The games have vastly improved as the season progressed, and despite the ten-second ruling the action is fast, and there is an excellent passing attack displayed. Competition is proving keen, and several teams are looking forward to an undefeated season.

Loyola Faculty Discusses U.S. Relations With British Empire

1. Interests and Policies of the British Commonwealth of Nations After the War.

a. The Commonwealth as a whole will be most determined in its resolve to hold on to the Empire, i. e. the Crown Colonies, Protectorates, Mandates, etc., although it may well be expected to participate in regional organizations and United Nations for the better administration and defense of these possessions. The determination to hold on was clearly expressed in Prime Minister Churchill's, "I have not become the King's First Minister in order to preside over the liquidation of the British Empire."

Colonel Stanley Quoted

The tendency toward regional administration and defense is seen in the statement of the British Secretary of State for Colonies, Col. Oliver Stanley, to the House of Commons on July 13, 1943, recommending that "welfare and development in the Colonies be undertaken on a regional transnational basis" through "the establishment of commissions comprising not only states with colonial territories in a certain region, but also states that have in the region a major strategic or economic interest," and with provision "to give the people of the colonial territories in the region an opportunity to be associated with the commissions' work." (Fortune, October 1944, p. 128).

b. The United Kingdom will be most desirous of full participation in the organization to be known as United Nations, because of her post-war economic, military and political weakness, and her hope of obtaining through it the security that she desires and a return to her former position of leadership, at least within the Commonwealth, if not in the world. The economic position of the United Kingdom in the post-war period will be critically weak, due to the liquidation of overseas investments and the loss of merchant marine, both of which were absolutely essential to the balancing of British foreign trade. Only within a United Nations framework that would guarantee her a share in these fields could she expect to find opportunity to recover her former economic security.

Weak Military Condition

The military position of the United Kingdom in the post-war period will be that of an exhausted nation, a nation that has felt the full impact of modern war and has learned the futility of mere self-reliance for her defense. The United Kingdom, economically unable to maintain large military, air and naval establishments for the defense of the islands, to say nothing of providing defense for the Empire and Commonwealth, will be most anxious to participate in collective security organized through the United Nations. Politically, the United Kingdom in the post-war world will be weaker and less influential than before 1939.

Within the Commonwealth, the Dominions have been and will continue to be self-reliant, with foreign policies and foreign relations of their own. In the Empire and among foreign states, the United Kingdom as the center of the Empire has lost face, with the fall of Singapore and the losses in the Southwest Pacific and Indian Ocean, with the inability to support Poland or to save the Low Countries and France. In an unorganized post-war world the United Kingdom would be merely a former great power in its advanced stages of decline. As a permanent member of the Security Council of the United Nations, the United Kingdom would have a new lease on life and a return to the position of leadership enjoyed in the pre-1939 era.

Dominions Attached To Crown

c. The Dominions will continue to feel their historical and sentimental attachment to the Crown and will retain their connection with, and membership in, the Commonwealth. The years of common war effort have, if anything, strengthened the human bonds between the peoples of the several self-governing Dominions. After common victory, there is little prospect of a dissolution of the Commonwealth.

The conference of the five Prime Ministers in May 1944 gave clear indication of this solidarity. A more practical reason for the continuance of the Commonwealth bond is found in the fact that the several Dominions of themselves would be destined to remain third-rate, or at best second-rate powers, whereas in association with one another in the Commonwealth they would be accounted as a great power in the world organization of United Nations. The Dominions may even be expected to ask that a seat on the Security Council of United Nations be granted not to Great Britain, but to the British Commonwealth of Nations, where they may have a say in the use of this vote.

Self-Interests Will Dominate

However, beyond the fact of continued membership in the Commonwealth, the Dominions will be guided by their own national self-interest and will be reluctant to sacrifice their national advantages for the sake of the revival of United Kingdom power and position. At present, the Dominions are well on the road toward positions as creditor rather than debtor nations, industrial rather than agricultural economies, nations with growing merchant marine and eventual commercial air-fleets.

They may be expected to retain these advantages and not to allow their historical and sentimental connections in the Commonwealth to prevent them from dealing with powers outside the Commonwealth to secure that position, even against the efforts of the United Kingdom to recover investment, trade and commercial supremacy in their respective countries and spheres.

America Should Cooperate

2. United States Cooperation with the British Commonwealth of Nations for Peace and Security.

a. For the broader purposes of peace we feel that mere haphazard promises of parallel action have proven themselves in the past to be doubly dangerous: they are so vague as to be practically ineffective; and so broad in possible interpretations as to arouse false hopes that are actually dangerous and a menace to peace. Undefined

The Universities Committee

The Universities Committee is sponsored by the World Peace Foundation and has groups in approximately fifty American colleges and universities.

Its purpose is to bring together the members of the faculties of every important college in the United States to exchange ideas on the problems of the Post-War World and thus to form opinions held by the majority of the country's educators.

The Loyola College group, founded last Spring, meets weekly on the campus at Evergreen.

commitments can never be depended upon to be fulfilled, and false reliance placed in them may even cause a lack of preparedness that may well prove fatal to the one so trusting.

Beyond such promises we strongly disapprove of a military alliance between the United States and the British Commonwealth of Nations. Such an action would merely herald a return to power politics, and an inevitable stimulus to the creation of counter systems (e. g. a Soviet-Asian Block), which would be setting the stage for World War III. Similarly, the proposal for a four-power alliance is rejected as another example of power politics, distasteful to all small nations and even to the members of the Commonwealth who are unwilling to place themselves at the mercy of such a group, even when Great Britain is one of the group.

Association Of Nations Urged

b. We feel that the only security system worthy of the name must arise from a general association of nations. The contributions asked from the lesser powers will naturally be small, but the goodwill resulting from their real inclusion in the actual system of security is essential to the effective working of the whole idea of security. Within such an organization, existing

Former Golf Star Weds

First Lieut. John B. Farrell, '41, was married to Miss Mary E. Kreuzer on Monday, September 8. The ceremony took place in the Church of the Immaculate Conception at Towson.

Lieut. Farrell was elected president of the Student Body in 1940. He was captain of the Evergreen golf team for all four of his years at Loyola and in addition acted as coach and manager. It was under Lieut. Farrell's leadership that the golf team won the Maryland Collegiate Championship. He was also a member of THE GREYHOUND editorial staff.

regional understandings, (e. g., the Monroe Doctrine, Permanent Joint Board on Defense, Canberra Agreement) and others that may subsequently be deemed necessary, should be continued.

Questions of global security should be left to the security force at the command of the Security Council of United Nations. It does not seem necessary in the light of the eventual formation of such a Council for the United States to make any further special regional commitments, for such problems would more readily be handled by United Nations action.

Settlement Of Lend-Lease

3. Settlement of Lend-Lease Assistance to the British Commonwealth of Nations.

a. With regard to Lend-Lease accounts, as well as all other suggestions of adapting our tariff, shipping and loan policies to the recognized and admitted needs and post-war problems of the British Commonwealth of Nations (or of any other nation, e. g. U. S. S. R.), we feel that the following attitude should be taken. We are quite willing to admit the consumed part of Lend-Lease as a part of our contribution to a common war effort, undertaken for the permanent removal of objectionable power politics and for the realization of the promises of the Atlantic Charter. We further recognize the importance of our tariff, shipping and loan policies to the restoration of world trade, and our duty to do our share in this field of post-war adjustment.

b. We are ready to cooperate in all these ways, but we make this conditional on effective reciprocal action on the part of Great Britain and her Dominions (as also on the

Three Seniors In Who's Who

Three Loyola Seniors have been selected to appear in this year's edition of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. They are: Angelo Alecce, Donald Giblin and John Kernan.

Mr. Alecce, now at the University of Maryland Medical School, is a member of the Alpha Sigma Nu, and was president of the Chemists' Club and News Editor of THE GREYHOUND.

Mr. Giblin is president of the Student Body at Loyola and is an officer of the Block L Club. Mr. Kernan is the Editor of the Senior Year Book and Feature Editor of THE GREYHOUND. He is also a member of the Alpha Sigma Nu.

The purpose of Who's Who is two-fold. First, to serve as a means by which a deserving student, after displaying outstanding talents in college, may receive recognition. Secondly, to establish a reference volume of authoritative information on America's leading college students. At Loyola, mention in this directory marks the approximate climax of a student's career.

part of other nations, e. g., U. S. S. R.). If they will abandon power politics and purely selfish interests for sincere broader programs of the common good, we are more than ready to do our share to make its abandonment profitable in terms of restored confidence, freer trade, improved standards of living, and wider general prosperity.

Power Politics Must Be Ended

But if and as they return to former power practices, discriminatory treatment and selfish demands, we will feel not only justified but compelled to demand payment for our goods (because under such conditions they would not have been used for the purpose for which they were loaned), and would find it necessary (though regrettably so) to reassert control over our own affairs in the interest of our own people and nation in a world that has gone back on its promises and reverted to pre-1939 anarchic politics.
